Board of Directors
County of Rockland Industrial Development Agency
254 South Main Street, Suite 410
New City, NY 10956

This letter is intended to communicate certain matters related to the planned scope and timing of our audit of the County of Rockland Industrial Development Agency (the "Agency") financial statements as of and for the year ending December 31, 2023.

Communication

Effective two-way communication between our Firm and the Board of Directors is important to understanding matters related to the audit and developing a constructive working relationship.

Your insights may assist us in understanding the Agency and its environment, identifying appropriate sources of audit evidence and in providing information about specific transactions or events. We will discuss with you your oversight of the effectiveness of internal control and any areas where you request additional procedures to be undertaken. We expect that you will communicate with us any matters that you consider relevant to the audit. Such matters might include strategic decisions that may significantly affect the nature, timing and extent of audit procedures, your suspicion or detection of fraud, or any concerns you may have about the integrity or competence of senior management.

We will timely communicate to you any fraud involving senior management and other known or likely fraud, noncompliance with provisions of laws, regulations, contracts or grant agreements or abuse that they are likely to have a material effect on the financial statements. We will also communicate illegal acts, instances of noncompliance that come to our attention (unless they are clearly inconsequential) and disagreements with management and other serious difficulties encountered in performing the audit. We also will communicate to you and to management any significant deficiencies or material weaknesses in internal control that become known to us during the course of the audit. Other matters arising from the audit that are, in our professional judgment, significant and relevant to you in your oversight of the financial reporting process will be communicated to you in writing after the audit.

Shared Responsibilities for Independence

Independence is a joint responsibility and is managed most effectively when management, audit committees (or their equivalents), and audit firms work together in considering compliance with American Institute of Certified Public Accountants ("AICPA") and Government Accountability Office ("GAO") independence rules. For RBT to fulfill its professional responsibility to maintain and monitor independence, management, the Agency, and RBT each play an important role.

Our responsibilities

- AICPA and GAO rules require independence both of mind and in appearance when providing audit and other attestation services. RBT is to ensure that the AICPA and GAO's General Requirements for performing non-attest services are adhered to and included in all letters of engagement.
- Maintain a system of quality management over compliance with independence rules and firm policies.

Your responsibilities

- Timely inform RBT, before the effective date of transactions or other business changes, of the following:
 - New affiliates, directors, or officers.
 - Changes in the organizational structure or the reporting entity impacting affiliates such as partnerships, related entities, investments, joint ventures, component units, jointly governed organizations.
- Provide necessary affiliate information such as new or updated structure charts, as well as financial information required to perform materiality calculations needed for making affiliate determinations.
- Understand and conclude on the permissibility, prior to the Agency and its affiliates, officers, directors, or persons in a decision-making capacity, engaging in business relationships with RBT.
- Not entering into arrangements of nonaudit services resulting in RBT being involved in making management decisions on behalf of the Agency.
- Not entering into relationships resulting in close family members of RBT covered persons, temporarily or permanently acting as an officer, director, or person in an accounting, financial reporting or compliance oversight role at the Agency.

Independence

Our independence policies and procedures are designed to provide reasonable assurance that our Firm and its personnel comply with applicable professional independence standards. Our policies address financial interests, business and family relationships, and non-audit services that may be thought to bear on independence. For example, without our permission, no partner or professional employee of our Firm is permitted to have any direct financial interest or a material indirect financial interest in a client or any affiliate of a client. Also, if an immediate family member or close relative of a partner or professional employee is employed by a client in a key position, the incident must be reported and resolved in accordance with Firm policy. In addition, our policies restrict certain non-audit services that may be provided by our Firm and require audit clients to accept certain responsibilities in connection with the provision of permitted non-attest services.

The Audit Planning Process

Our audit approach places a strong emphasis on obtaining an understanding of how the Agency functions. This enables us to identify key audit components and tailor our procedures to the unique aspects of your operations. The development of a specific audit plan will begin by meeting with you and with management to obtain an understanding of objectives, strategies, risks and performance.

As part of obtaining an understanding of your Agency and its environment, we will obtain an understanding of internal control. We will use this understanding to identify risks of material misstatement, and noncompliance which will provide us with a basis for designing and implementing responses to the assessed risks of material misstatement and noncompliance. We will also obtain an understanding of the users of the financial statements in order to establish an overall materiality level for audit purposes. We will conduct formal discussions among engagement team members to consider how and where your financial statements might be susceptible to material misstatement due to fraud or error or to instances of noncompliance, including abuse.

The Concept of Materiality in Planning and Executing the Audit

We apply the concept of materiality both in planning and performing the audit, evaluating the effect of identified misstatements or noncompliance on the audit, and the effect of uncorrected misstatements, if any, on the financial statements, and in forming the opinion in our report on the financial statements and in determining or reporting in accordance with Government Auditing Standards and other compliance reporting requirements. Our determination of materiality is a matter of professional judgment and is affected by our perception of the financial and compliance informational needs of users of the financial statements. We establish performance materiality at an amount less than materiality for the financial statements as a whole to allow for the risk of misstatements that may not be detected by the audit. We use performance materiality for purposes of assessing the risks of material misstatement and determining the nature, timing and extent of further audit procedures. Our assessment of materiality throughout the audit will be based on both quantitative and qualitative considerations. Because of the interaction of quantitative and qualitative considerations, misstatements of a relatively small amount could have a material effect on the current financial statements as well as financial statements of future periods. We will accumulate misstatements identified during the audit, other than those that are clearly trivial. At the end of the audit, we will inform you of all individual uncorrected misstatements aggregated by us in connection with our evaluation of our audit test results.

Significant Risks of Material Misstatement

Our audit of the financial statements includes the performance of risk assessment procedures in order to identify risks of material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error. As part of these risk assessment procedures, we determine whether any risks identified are a significant risk. A significant risk is an identified and assessed risk of material misstatement that, in our professional judgment, requires special audit consideration. As part of our initial risk assessment procedures, we identified management override of controls as a significant risk. Additional significant risks may be identified as we perform additional audit procedures.

Our Approach to Internal Control and Compliance Relevant to the Audit

Our audit of the financial statements, including compliance, will include obtaining an understanding of internal control sufficient to plan the audit and to determine the nature, timing and extent of audit procedures to be performed. An audit is not designed to provide assurance on internal control or to identify significant deficiencies or material weaknesses. Our review and understanding of the Agency's internal control is not undertaken for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of internal control.

We will issue a report on internal control related to the financial statements. This report describes the scope of testing of internal control and the results of our tests of internal controls. Our report on internal control will include any significant deficiencies and material weaknesses in the system, of which we become aware as a result of obtaining an understanding of internal control and performing tests of internal control consistent with the requirements of the Government Auditing Standards issued by the Comptroller General of the United States.

We will issue a report on compliance with laws, statutes, regulations, and the terms and conditions of federal awards. We will report on any noncompliance that could have a material effect on the financial statements. Our report on compliance will address material errors, fraud, abuse, violations of compliance requirements, and other responsibilities imposed by state and federal statutes and regulations and assumed contracts of which we become aware, consistent with the requirements of the standards identified above.

Timing of the Audit

We will schedule our audit fieldwork for Spring, 2024. Management's adherence to its closing schedule and timely completion of information used by us in performance of the audit is essential to timely completion of the audit.

Shannon M. Mannese, CPA, CFE will be the Partner for this engagement and will assume responsibility for directing and reviewing the fieldwork and issuing the audit opinion.

Closing

This communication is intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
